

Allowing people with a disability to live independently

The Supported Accommodation Program allows people to learn the skills to live independently in a safe and secure environment. The program also caters for people to move toward living independently with drop-in support only.

All residents assist in the general operation of their household, including preparing their own meals, shopping, cleaning and tending to the garden. Residents have their own rooms, which are furnished and decorated to their own taste.

Opportunities to learn new skills are also available, such as computer skills, budgeting skills, catching transport and pursuing recreational and social interests.

Aspire's skilled staff support residents in all these areas and provide support in expanding life experiences.
